

ERRATA

An error which inadvertently occurred in the Ghana Journal of Development Studies, Vol. 14, No. 1, 2017 is hereby corrected as follows:

Assessing the Economic Efficiency of Maize Production in Northern Ghana

Errata

Section	Error	Correction
Authors' names and institutional addresses	1. Paul Kwame Nkegbe University for Development Studies, Campus , Ghana	1. Campus should be changed to Tamale .
	2. Samuel A. Donkor	2. Donkor should be replaced as Donkoh
Abstract	1. First sentence of abstract: This study used the stochastic frontier model to examine the technical, allocative and economic efficiency of maize production in northern Ghana using cross-sectional data for the 2011/2012 cropping season	1. Instead, it should be efficiencies .
	2. Last sentence of abstract: Fertilizer and labour are currently being over-used and requires 82.8% and 94.5% reductions respectively to reach their allocatively efficient points.	2. Replace with require
Introduction	Line 6, third sentence: The introduction of output enhancing technologies such as improved seeds for cereals like maize, and use of agrochemicals raised agriculture productivity and transformed it into a modern sector in Asia.	Replace with agricultural
Sub-section: Maize Production in Ghana (pp 124)	First sentence: The aim of Ghana's Medium Term Agriculture Sector Investment Plan (METASSIP) is to modernise agriculture which	Insert METASSIP .

The Ghana Journal of Development Studies offers readers its most sincere apologies for the error.